SCRAPS OF SCIENCE.

To an electrician one horse power is 746 watts.

Argon, the recently discovered element of air, is as expected from its existence in the chromosphere, very light and apparently monatomic.

The electrometer is so acutely sensitive that it will detect in one minute an amount of matter which must accumulate for 2,000,000 years before there is enough of it to affect the most sensitive chemical balance.

The thorium atom, universally believed since its discovery by Berzelius, three-quarters of a century ago, to be a single and indivisible particle of matter, now appears as the progenitor of five new substances, even more elemental than itself, evolved by successive and spontaneous changes within its substance.

The Gila Monster.

The Gila monster is an orange and black lizard found in the southwestern part of the United States. Its bite is venomous and sometimes dangerous.

The First Typewriters.

The first typewriter that produced good results, although it was very slow, was made by a Worcester man, Charles Thurber, in 1843. The first typewriters that were put on the market were made in 1874.
